Civil Rights Bill Passage Is Delayed

Backers Set New Target Date as Details Knot Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - House leaders who once hoped to pass a civil rights bill this week talked today of next Wednesday as a new target date.

And senators who had indicated that body would pass next week the House bill they had expected to have by now made no effort to speed up consideration of their own bill on the subject.

Both houses were tied up on details of the administration's proposal for court-appointed referees to guarantee the voting rights of Negroes and other minority groups who say they can't vote because of racial discrimina-

Attempts were being made from both sides to substitute different systems and to change the detalls of the administration plan.

The Senate started consideration of that section after voting criminal penalties for interstate transportation of any explosive intended for bombing public or private buildings.

It was adopted 86-1, with Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen voting "no" because he said the Senate was straying far afield from civil rights.

The Senate takes up today a proposal by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to substitute for the referee plan the system of appointed voting registrars suggested last year by the Civil Rights Commission.

Douglas' proposal would apply that plan to both federal and state elections and would authorize its use if 50 or more complaints of racial discrimination were received from any county. The rights commission had proposed its use after only nine complaints. but limited it to federal elections. The House defeated 192 - 121

Wall Street, Washington Views Differ

Just How Well Off Is Nation's Economy This Election Year?

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)-Wall Street and official Washington have been taking different views on how well off we are and on our chances for more prosperity.

At least that's how it looks at first glance. Wall Street doubts show up in the stock price dip. Official predictions in Washington continue to stress the prospect of pleasant months ahead for most

But in election years most people take a second glance at both statistics and predictions and at any nervous ups and downs in the stock market.

This is a year in which the economy can be - and is - interpreted with an eye on the party conventions and the November elections. And it's a year in which public reaction, either to statistics and predictions or the stock market, gets the closest attention.

The truth may lie in Wall Streets swing toward caution, or in the calming talk along the Potomac. It might even lie in between-there is plenty of precedent for that

Here are the opposite views as they look at first glance:

President Eisenhower says, "The outlook for American business is indeed good.'

The chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers, Raymond J. Saulnier, tells the House Appropriations Committee: "In my judgment economic developments are a good bit more favorable than one would gather from some of the current appraisals of our

The appraisals to which he refers have come mainly from New York-a city known for its quick changes in sentiment, from economic enthusiasm to business

the public's eye is the course of stock prices. And since the first of the year it's been mostly down, broken now and then by conforting rallies.

This brings up the old debate: Is the stock market a barometer of good times or bad times on the way? Those who think it is could believe that late spring and summer will see a general slowdown. Of contrary mind are those who can cite occasions when the stock market seemed to predict one thing and the general economy went the other way.

These observers think what is happening in the stock market is more of an adjustment to reality than a prediction of the future. They note that this isn't the first time that stock prices soared too high and had to be hauled back to earth to the pain of those who had guessed wrong.

The President notes that some of the industrial and business goals set around New Year's Eve were "rather bold." His own advisers have always counseled a moderate target.

Athens Clinic Gets Nod at New Checkup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)-State examiners today reported marked improvement of the physical plant and administration at Athens State Hospital during the past 51/2 years.

Their report to State Auditor James A. Rhodes covered the period from May 7, 1954, to Sept. 29,

Officials and 447 employes were commended for improved opera- Driver Snoozes tions, morale, sanitation and food

Supt. Hubert H. Flockner, plant engineer Harold Cox and business manager M. Eugene Bleigh drew

"Under the direction of these three persons," examiners said, "there is a continuing effort to better the physical plant of Athens State Hospital to the end

"At the time of the last examination in 1954, many faults were found with the hospital, the building, floors, plumbing, sanitation and food service. Since that time, those faults have been rectified. In spite of the limited means and some meager appropriations, steady improvement has been made.'

Wall Street, Washington Views Differ

Just How Well Off Is Nation's Economy This Election Year?

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst NEW YORK (AP)-Wall Street and official Washington have been taking different views on how well off we are and on our chances for more prosperity. At least that's how it looks at first glance. Wall Street doubts show up in the stock price dip. Official predictions in Washington continue to stress the prospect of of us. But in election years most peo ple take a second glance at both statistics and predictions and at any nervous ups and downs in the stock market.

pleasant months ahead for most

This is a year in which the economy can be - and is - interpreted with an eye on the party conventions and the November elections. And it's a year in which public reaction, either to statistics and predictions or the stock market, gets the closest attention.

The truth may lie in Wall Streets swing toward caution, or in the calming talk along the Potomac. It might even lie in between-there is plenty of precedent for that.

Here are the opposite views as they look at first glance:

President Eisenhower says, "The outlook for American business is indeed good."

The chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers, Raymond J. Saulnier, tells the House Appropriations Committee: "In my judgment economic developments are a good bit more favorable than one would gather from some of the current appraisals of our economy.

The appraisals to which he refers have come mainly from New York-a city known for its quick changes in sentiment, from economic enthusiasm to business caution

Some of the statements are by industrialists who have toned down the exuberant views they held on New Year's Eve.

But the appraisal that catches the public's eye is the course of stock prices. And since the first of the year it's been mostly down, broken now and then by conforting rallies.

This brings up the old debate: Is the stock market a barometer of good times or bad times on the way? Those who think it is could believe that late spring and summer will see a general slow-summer will see a general slow-down. Of contrary mind are those who can cite occasions when the stock market seemed to predict one thing and the general economy went the other way.

These observers think what is happening in the stock market is more of an adjustment to reality than a prediction of the future. They note that this isn't the first time that stock prices soared too high and had to be hauled back to earth to the pain of those who had guessed wrong.

The President notes that some of the industrial and business the carmeter of the Logan Elm School District of Pickaway County, Circleville, Ohio, at the office of the Clerk, Neil Morris, Route 1, Kingston, Ohio, Pickaway County, until 12 O'Clock neon, Eastern Standard Time, April 15, 1960, and opened by the clerk of said board at its first public meeting thereafter, for all labor, material, and equipment for the Logan Elm High School in said district, according to plans and specifications for this work are on file at the offices of the executive head of the Logan Elm School District, Route 4, Circleville, Ohio, at the office of the clerk, Neil Morris, Route 1, Kingston, Ohio, Pickaway County, until 12 O'Clock neon, Eastern Standard Time, April 15, 1960, and opened by the clerk of said board at its first public meeting thereafter, for all labor, material, and equipment for the Logan Elm High School in said district, according to plans and specifications for this work are on file at the offices of the executive head of the Logan Elm School District, Route 4, Circleville, Ohio, at the office of the Logan Elm School District of Pickaway County, until 12 O'Clock neon, Eastern Standard Time, April 15, 1960, and opened by the clerk of said board at its first public meeting thereafter, for all labor, material, and equipment for the Logan Elm School in said district, according to plans and specifications for this work are on file at the office of the current to the plans and specifications for this work are on file at the office of the current to the plans and sp

Those are conformities with the law; there are other essential conformities, as for instance, a man is expected to support his children; a mother, having surplus children, may not murder her offspring; a fellow at college is not expected to cheat during his examinations; physicians may not commit abortions and lawyers are forbidden to engage in barratry.

an American is many things and I think those professional Americans who attempt to make a defense on the basis of conformity in my opinion make a great mistake. .

It seems to me that Kramer's difficulties are of his own making. An American is first of all a citizen of the United States. native-born or naturalized. Secondly, he agrees to uphold and maintain the Constitution of the United States and to this he is likely to take an oath many times during his life in one way or another. Other than this, there are no qualifications.

No American need belong to a political party, or a religious sect of which there are more than 250 in this country, proving ample non-conformity.

As no American need agree with any other American, so no one needs to agree with him and if he talks fresh, he is liable to get stepped on which is a characteristic of all free societies. Emma Goldman, Eugene V. Debs, Big Bill Haywood and many other brave fighters for this or that were often stepped

What Kramer apparently wants to eliminate is the risk of standing on one's own the way John Brown did. Men might get hanged for that but the courageous man fears neither threat nor act. Kramer defends those who hid behind the Fifth Amendment.

"...I am or have been certainly in disagreement with Mr. (Nathan) Douglas at the time of his taking the Fifth Amendment. But I believe that when he retired rightly or wrongly behind the Fifth Amendment that that law was in the Constitution, that precept was in the Constitution, as a right for people with whom I am in disagreement as well as for people with whom I am in agreement. . ."

Nathan Douglas is another

NIGHT CLUB comedian was laying the egg of all times. A Only one person in the audience dug his humor at all, but this one certainly howled after each terrible joke. Then came one sally so atrocious that even the one admirer couldn't go for it. The crestfallen comedian walked over to his one rooter and grumbled, "What's the matter, jerk? Laugh it up, will you? You're ruining my act!"

A magazine editor who is constantly worried that he's getting too fat, received a fearful jolt the other afternoon. His new overcoat wouldn't button in the middle. His secretary finally took pity on him and confessed that the two fresh female assistants had carefully moved all the buttons two inches to the right.

Khrushchev now says the Berlin issue can be solved only one way-his way. He wants West Berlin to be what he calls a "free city" - detached from West Germany, shorn of Western military support, and protected against communist engulfment only by communist promises not to engulf it.

If he insists that the West must thus abandon the two million people of West Berlin, what can negotiation accomplish? He adds the threat that if the West does not yield, Russia will sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany which, he insists, will "abolish all the consequences of World War II and make West Berlin automatically part of East German territory.

And then what? Khrushchev had answered that question earlier, saying that if the West resists the East Germans by force of arms it will have to fight Russia.

One Western decision just made is aimed at keeping what is left of Western bargaining power intact. It has been decided to send more planes through the agreed air corridor to Berlin at levels above the 10,-000 feet which Russia unilaterally insists Western planes should observe. The West has never agreed to this. But the only way to make clear that it stands on its rights is to exercise them, and so it is necessary to start exercising them again before the summit conference opens.

With the Soviet position on Berlin remaining rigid, the West would be stupid not to assert its right of unlimited access to the Berlin air corridors.

The belief is widespread that you can jolt a panie-stricken person out of his confusion by slapping his face or dousing him with cold water. Actually, this idea is unsound.

Such abuse might interrupt the person's disorganized behavior very briefly. But usually it will fail to halt his panic permanently. Moreover, such abrupt and brutal action may have an adverse effect on others around you.

It is essential that any persons who are becoming panicky be controlled immediately. Panic, re-

Senior Student Equipped For Life after 12 Grades

This is the last in a series of 12 articles on the Pickaway County School system. Through these articles it is hoped that parents and students alike will understand more fully the objectives and problems of the system, its administrators and teachers. By ROBERT SEWARD

County General Supervisor As a parent, it is probably difficult to realize that your child is in the last year of his or her public school education.

Your child has grown from a small child, with little knowledge of the ways of the world, into a young man or young woman much better equipped to face his or her future than were members of past generations at this same stage of life.

The curriculum of each of our 10 high schools requires seniors to study a fourth year of English, a year of American government and to participate in physical education.

The elective subjects offered to seniors vary from school to school as they do in the other three high school grades. In many of our schools, as described in a previous article, the juniors and seniors are combined in many elective subject areas to provide for a higher pupil teacher ratio.

ELECTIVE subjects offered to our twelfth grade students in the various high schools are: Latin and French; mathematics - advanced algebra, advanced math, solid geometry and trigonometry; science - chemistry or physics and health; commercial - shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, business English. salesmanship, office practice and commercial law;

Vocational - industrial arts home economics, vocational agriculture and general agriculture; social studies - economic geography and sociology; and music; public speaking; journalism, and driver education

Your child will recieve his high school diploma upon completion of the twelfth grade and by meeting the standards established by your local board of education and the State Department of Education.

One of the problems confronting educators throughout the state is whether to grant all students the same type of diploma. Should the student completing a commercial course reveice the same type of diploma as a student completing a college preparatory course?

Should the student mastering a vocational course receive the same type of diploma as the slow learning student who has been a good school citizen and has achieved to the limit of his ability?

Some educators think that diplomas would be more meaningful if they were issued on the basis of the type of program the student has mastered while their opponents think this would be showing diserimination.

OUR SCHOOLS Issue one standard type of diploma. Likewise, our schools are confronted with the tradition of selecting each year from members of the graduating class, a valedictorian and a salutatorian. The assumption being that the valedictorian is the outstanding student scholastically and the salutatorian the second best student arrive at a numerical ratio. The school day. This may entail an exstudent with the highest ratio is considered the valedictorian.

Many educators think this practice should be discontinued as other factors such as the type of program pursued, the number of credit hours earned and the student's ability versus his achievement, are not taken into consideration.

You, as a parent, should be proud of your student as he receives his high school diploma. Statistics show that only slightly more than half of all students enrolled in the fifth grade finish high school and that only two out of every three students enrolled in the ninth grade graduate from high school.

Those students who do not complete high school are called "dropouts". Educators are gravely concerned about this high drop out rate | gram. and are currently trying to reduce out of school.

A strong public relations program emphasizing the future advantages, of students completing high versus those dropping out, may convert many parents from an impassive attitude, in regards to their children attending school, to an active attitude. This program can be more effectively carried on by members of the community than by school personnel.

To effectively provide a curriculum to reduce the drop out rate, to continue to supply our schools with competent teaching personnel, and to provide adequate facilities and equipment, requires money. This leads us into another problem with which educators are faced - financing the school pro-

Senior Student Equipped For Life after 12 Grades

This is the last in a series of 12 articles on the Pickaway County School system. Through these articles it is hoped that parents and students alike will understand more fully the objectives and problems of the system, its administrators and teachers, By ROBERT SEWARD. By ROBERT SEWARD

County General Supervisor As a parent, it is probably difficalt to realize that your child is in the last year of his or her public school education.

Your child has grown from a small child, with little knowledge of the ways of the world, into a young man or young woman much better equipped to face his or her future than were members of past generations at this same stage of life.

The curriculum of each of our 10 high schools requires seniors to study a fourth year of English, a year of American government and to participate in physical education,

The elective subjects offered to seniors vary from school to school as they do in the other three high school grades. In many of our schools, as described in a previous article, the juniors and seniors are combined in many elective subject areas to provide for a higher pupil teacher ratio.

ELECTIVE subjects offered to our twelfth grade students in the various high schools are: Latin and French; mathematics - advanced algebra, advanced math, solid geometry and trigonometry; science - chemistry or physics and health; commercial - shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, business English, salesmanship, office practice and commercial law;

Vocational - industrial arts, home economics, vocational agriculture and general agriculture; soeial studies - economic geography and sociology; and music; public speaking; journalism, and driver education Your child will recieve his high school diploma upon completion of the twelfth grade and by meeting the standards established by your local board of education and the State Department of Education.

One of the problems confronting educators throughout the state is whether to grant all students the same type of diploma. Should the student completing a commercial course revelce the same type of diploma as a student completing a college preparatory course?

Should the student mastering a vocational course receive the same type of diploma as the slow learning student who has been a good school citizen and has achieved to the limit of his ability? Some educators think that diplomas would be more meaningful if they were issued on the basis of the type of program the student has mastered while their opponents think this would be showing diserimination. OUR SCHOOLS Issue one standard type of diploma. Likewise, our tradition of selecting each year class, a valedictorian and a salutatorian. The assumption being that the valedictorian is the outstanding student scholastically and the sal-

Many educators think this practice should be discontinued as other factors such as the type of program pursued, the number of credit hours earned and the student's ability versus his achievement, are not taken into consideration.

You, as a parent, should be proud of your student as he receives his high school diploma. Statistics show that only slightly more than half of all students enrolled in the fifth grade finish high school and that only two out of every three students enrolled in the ninth grade graduate from high school. Those students who do not complete high school are called "dropouts". Educators are gravely concerned about this high drop out rate and are currently trying to reduce the number of students who drop out of school.

An educated citizenry is vital to many reasons why students drop gram. out of school.

A strong public relations program emphasizing the future advantages, of students completing high versus those dropping out, may convert many parents from an impassive attitude, in regards to their children attending school, to an active attitude. Mary Bachmeier, the junior from North Dakota State, promises to be a repeater in 1961. But no one can say who will replace Ed Smallwood of Evansville's NCAA champions, Charles Sharp of Southwest Texas' NAIA champions, Willie Jones of American Legal Notices University and Bobby Williams of St. Josephs (Indiana).

Sharp, a 6-6 hookshot artist, is the only repeater this year from the 1959 Little All-America. He was voted the most valuable player in the NAIA tourney as he led the Southwest Bobcats to the title. Smallwood, at 6-4 the second tallest player on the first team, was the most valuable player in the NCAA small college tourney as Evansville again won the NCAA

Jones, 5-9 set an NCAA record single game high of 54 points against Evansville in the quarterfinals. About the only reason American Univ. didn't win that game was Smallwood's 41 points that twice wiped out eight-point leads by the Mason-Dixon Conference champs. Williams set all kinds of scoring records for St. Josephs while Bachmeier virtually rewrote the North Central Conference record book.

Chuck Davis, a 5-9 ball-handling wizard who led the Westminster (Pa) Titans to second place in the NAIA tourney, headed the 1960 second team. Dennis Bonne of Regis, Jim McDonald of West Virginia Wesleyan, Don Perrelli of Southern Connecticut and Tom Cooke of Chapman (Calif) round out the second team.

PUBLIC NOTICE COMMON PLEAS COURT, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO No. 22723 Capital City Excavating Co., Inc.,

Plaintiff

Vs.

Pickaway Enterprises, Inc., et al.,

Defendants

MOBILE HOME PARK DEVELOP.

MENT CORP., whose address is Chicago, Illinois, is hereby notified that on February 3, 1960, Capital City Excavating Co., Inc., filed a petition as plaintiff in the Common Pleas Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, in Cause No. 22723, against them and others as defendants, alleging that on January 29, 1960, upon consideration of the Court of Common Pleas, Franklin County, Ohio, Plaintiff recovered a judgment against the defendants Pickaway Enterprises, In c. and Frederic E. Whitaker, for the sum of $2753.25, interest and costs; that on the same day a certificate of said judgment was filed with the Clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, Pickaway County, Ohio, and that an execution was issued to the Sheriff of Pickaway County, Ohio, directing him to levy on all property, both real and chattel of said Pickaway Enterprises, Inc., which said execution was returned wholly unsatisfied. Further plaintiff says that said judgment is in full force and effect and unpaid; that there is due plaintiff on said judgment the sum of $2753.25 plus unpaid; that there is due plaintiff on said judgment the sum of $2753.25 plus interest from January 29, 1960 and

Osts.
That the defendant Pickaway Enterprises, Inc. has neither personal or real property subject to levy on execution sufficient to satisfy the judgment and interest.

That the defendant Pickaway Enter-prises, Inc. is the owner of certain real property bounded and described as follows:

County of Pickaway, State of Ohio, and in Harrison Township and bounded and described as follows:
Being part of the Southeast Quarter of Section 24, Township 3, Range 22, M. S. Mary Bachmeier, the junior from North Dakota State, promises to be a repeater in 1961. But no one can say who will replace Ed Smallwood of Evansville's NCAA champions, Charles Sharp of Southwest Texas' NAIA champions, Willie Jones of American Legal Notices University and Bobby Williams of St. Josephs (Indiana).

Sharp, a 6-6 hookshot artist, is the only repeater this year from the 1959 Little All-America. He Capital City Excavating Co., Inc., was voted the most valuable player in the NAIA tourney as he led er in the NAIA tourney as he led the Southwest Bobcats to the title. Smallwood, at 6-4 the second tallest player on the first team, was the most valuable player in the NCAA small college tourney as Evansville again won the NCAA crown.

Jones, 5-9 set an NCAA record single game high of 54 points against Evansville in the quarter-finals. About the only reason American Univ. didn't win that game was Smallwood's 41 points that twice wiped out eight-point leads by the Mason-Dixon Conference champs. Williams set all kinds of scoring records for St. Josephs while Bachmeier virtually rewrote the North Central Conference record book.
